Summary

I would describe myself as a strong and optimistic individual. My ultimate motto for each day in my life is " Be a better person than you were yesterday.". I am always dreaming big and try to convert those dreams into goals and get them achieved effectively.

I see good in every person I met, and I am always keen to help people either way. I possess good communication, interpersonal, and leadership skills that make me a good team player and a team leader.

I am specializing in Business Information Systems and seeking to get disclosed a career path where I could blend my knowledge in Management and Information Technology. Further, I am passionate about innovations that would serve a higher purpose.
